kins, in which the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children seek to remove him from the guardianplace yesterday, before Judge Dantels, in Supreme Court, Chambers. Colonel George H. Hart, on behalf of Mr. Atkins, began by declaring that the Court had no jurisdiction, because a habeas corpus proceeding was solely for the purpose of releasing a prisoner. He insisted that courts of equity issued writs of baeas corpus as auxiliary to a bill or petition to relieve infants withheld from their proper custody, or to lib-erate them from oppression for the purpose of bringing the infant into court as the Court's ward. The only question, however, he urged, to be determined on only question, however, he urged, to be determined on the nabeas corpus inquisition, was whether the infant was illegally restrained. He contended that in this instance a warrant was issued instead of a writ, which it was canned was derogatory of common law right, the statute under which it issued having to be strictly compiled with; that there was no oriminal offence charged against Mr. Atkins, and yet he was arrested as a criminal; that these proceedings were an invasion of the constitution and the law of the land and in violation of every right. He then maintained that the only process under the circumstances that should issue was the common law writ, which it was claimed still rema and in full force except when abrogated by statutes; that there were only two classes of cases in which the statutes provided for habeas corpus proceedings on behalf of infants—one being in case the infant was hold by the Shakors; the other where nusband and write were living separate and etther sought the custody of the cuild of their marriage. He submitted that the society had no specual authority mere than natural persons, and was relegated to pursuing the same method of procedure, which was by a bill in equity aided by a writ of haceas corpus, and the procedure by warrant and the issues careful, and the procedure by warrant and the issues careful, and the procedure by warrant and the issues careful, and the procedure by warrant and the issues careful, and the procedure by warrant and the issues the fitness of the father were unsanctioned by law. The only disposition the Court could make in the premises, as the petition conceased that Mr. Atkins was the father of the child, was to dismiss the writ. He suggested that had it been alleged that the father had a inswiti right to chastise his child; that the society was officious, and that it should be jealously next them, could inquire whether he was legally entitled to the custody, but nothing more. He then critically reviewed and commented on the testimony and closed by earnestly the nabeas corpus inquisition, was whether the infant

The suit of naboas corpus sued out by Mr. Alfred made returnable yesterday before Judge Daniels, came to rather an abrupt termination. Mrs. Kloppensteick, as will be remembered, was sent to State prison for five years on a charge of theft, and after serving out a portion of her time at Sing Sing was transferred to the Lunaite Asylum at Au-burn, she having, as alleged, shown signs of insanity, culminating in her attempt at suicide. It is claimed that her imprisonment was the result of compiracy to obtain possession of her impray, and that this so proyed on her mind as to temporarily unsettle her reason. On the expiration of her term of imprison-ment, instead of being discharged, she was sent to the Guy Prison, to be cared for as an insane porson, and hence the suing out of a writ of habeas corpus, in-atead, however, of being brought into court yester-day, as anticipated, the following letter was handed by Mr. Steckler to Judge Daniels:— Curr Frison, July 28, 1878.

Mr. Steckier wrote a note to Mrs. Sobescheck, living at the corner of 165 the street and Third avenue, a friend of Mrs. Kloppenstock, asking her if she would assume charge of the unfortunate woman. FIGHTING FOR HIS PORK. William Brown, an able bodied sattor of unadulterassault and battery committed on nim by Captain Charles B. Staples. The plaintiff was, be said, a sea from Philadelphia to Matauzus, Cuba, of which the defendant was captain. When about fifteen days out, he says, the captain struck him at the forecastle three times on the left shoulder. Still later, and when at the wheel, the captain again struck him four times, three of which blows were deliv-ered on the left shoulder and the fourth on the mouth, splitting his up and knocking him from ered on the left shoulder and the fourth on the mouth, splitting his itp and knocking him from the whoel. When this occurred plaintiff continued, "Ole Bill Johnson (another colored sailor) was in do forctop, an' he sing out to me, "Don't leave dat wheel," an' den i sing out to Ole Bill, "I'll listen to you, ole man." When de captain hit me free times on de left shoulder he say to me, "De nex time! I draw blood," an' den he hit me on de moul. All I do den I say, "Cap'n, when I get to de States I make you pay lor dis," an' den de cap'n he say to me, "You open you black mout an' I blow you black brains out." De cap'n he too knock my cap off."

The captain's story was that no such violence as that teathied to by the plaintiff nad been used by him, and the whole trouble, such as it was, grew out of a quarrel between the plaintiff and the steward as to the former's allowance of pork. While this quarrel was going on the captain, who was an invaluant the time, osme up, and learning what was going on told the plaintiff to take the shipping articles (bill of fare) and mill tup in the forcessite and be would then know how much pork he was entitled to. The plaintiff refused, and, using bad language, he was told by the captain that if he used such language to him he would blow his brains out. Later when the plaintiff came to the wheel he had a towel ted around his ness. The captain asked him what that was for, and got the answer that it was because of the blow given him in the mouth. The daptain pronounced that assertion a lie, and pulling the towel off his head his cap fell off also. This, the captain asserted, was the only striking or knocking off caps there was. Other witnesses were examined, some of whom saw meither blows nor bleeding, tous placing the Jouge in the unpeasant dilemma of having to decide which of the two lines of testimony was entitled to the preponderance of credence. At the continuou of the testimony Judge Shea said he would reduce his decide which of the two lines of certainon is decided which is the t

THE SHEPHERD'S FOLD.

In 1873, Rev. E. Conley, one of the trustees of the Shepherd's Fold, was not elected at the annual election. Several of the friends of the institution, principaily ladies, sympathized with her, and a ladies' association of the Shepherd's Fold was formed, which name was afterward enanged to the Children's Fold. In 1874 the Shepherd's Fold had its property foreclosed and the children were distributed elsewhere. In 1878 the Conney party got themsolves elected trustees and commenced mandatus proceedings to compet the Comprolier to pay to them, as the Children's Fold of the Protestant Episcopal Church, $2,500 out of the $5,000 annual appropriation for the institution. Concey had twentythree children to care for and the old trustees had no institution. The case came up on quo warranto proceedings by the old trustees to determine the title in their favor, and on a motion for an injunction against the mandamus proceedings pending triat. The answer was that the plaintiff had abautoued their trust and that defendants were duly elected. Judge Daniels, before whom the case was argued yesterday, took the papers.

Popiar streets, in Brooklyn, was recently arrested for alleged complicity in the larceny of $10,000 worth of bonds from John Hogan, the marble deater, of East Twenty-third street, in this city. The case is a com-plicated one, a man named Hildreth, Hogan's loreman, baving, as aileged, appropriated the bonds, and man, having, as alleged, appropriates the bounds, and given them to bis mistrees, Jennie Eustice, who, in turn, transferred them to Shaniey. Messra, Howe & Hummel, counsel for Shaniey, yesterday applied to the supreme Court for writs of habeas corpus and certiferari on a petition setting forth that shanley was an innocent holder of the stelen property, and became possessed of the bonds legitimately and in good faith. Judge Paniels granted the application and issued the write, directing the prisoner to be brought to Supreme Gourt, Chambers, this morning, when a motion will be made for his discharge.

SUMMARY OF LAW CASES. In Supreme Court, Chambers, hold by Judge Daniels, the numbers for to-day are Nos. 20, 136, 139 and 168.

The call begins at No. 180 on the general calendar. The case of the Commercial Union Assurance Com-pany, of London, against Israel H. He holds that she is a workiny woman, and that the aspersions against her character are unfounded.

In the suit brought by Collins B. Cole against Cora Pearl Heusted-Cole, which is one for divorce on account of adultery slieged to have been committed shortly siter marriage, before Judge Daniels, a motion was made yesternay for lears to set up as additional suswer, condonation. The facts have been fully published in the HERALD and the case has been for months before a referee. Mr. Gook, in opposition, and the proposed answer was untrue and that there was no proceed answer was untrue and that there was no proceed answer was untrue and that there and be happy, but she wanted her velvet sacque and jewelry. Counsel said she alterward requested her husband to lorgive her, but he was obstinate and would not. Judge Daniels took the papers.

A motion was made yesterday, in Supreme Court, Chambers, before Judge Daniels, by General Chaifield to continue the injunction of Simonson vs. Wood. The motiou prays for the removal of F. Lewis, the collegeor of the Wood estate, appointed by surregate Cavits. The will of Mr. Wood left about $750 000 for the formation of a benevoient institution or a nospital. The codicil to the will subsequently made provides that a musical college shall be established with his fortune. It is now claimed that the will devises the estate in fee to trustees named in the will. Judge Daniels set down the hearing of the case for Thursday.

COOPER-MARSHALL.

THE PROCEEDINGS CONTINUED BEFORE THE BEFEREE-KIRK'S TESTIMONY CLOSED-A COLOBED COOK ON THE STAND.

Again Mr. Cooper, of Long Branch, failed to put in an appearance yesterday at the Cooper-Marshall trial, but it is expected that he will give the rest of his testimony this week. Mr. Theodore A. Kirk, the Fourth Avenue car conductor, resumed his statement in regard to certain phases of the divorce which Mrs. Cooper-Marshall obtained in 1875 from her husband. The contestant herself was present, but was very quiet and totally ignored Kirk's presence.

After answering a few questions put by Mr. Ten Eyck Kirk was examined on his redirect testimony by Mr. Scribner. He said that on the 17th of March get a divorce from him; he was willing, and he asked to a house in Wooster street; thence they went to Lawyer Caldwell's office; Mrs. Cooper had nothing to do with the visit; it was made at Cooper's request; Mr. Caldwell offered $5 for his affidavit; Cooper said, "Wait until the terms of agreement have been complied with;" afterward Cooper said the matter had been mony until he had been paid for his time and trouble; he asked $50; Mr. Caldwell offered $15 and a situation, and said that if he refused there was a young man in his office who would do everything necessary man in his office who would do everything necessary to get a divorce; Mr. Caldwell then followed witness and promised to give him $25 and a situation, whore-upon witness furnished the evidence; Mr. Caldwell gave him his check for $25 and wrote u letter to the Bleecker Street Car Company for him; Mr. Cooper was in an adjoining room at the time.

THE AFFERMON SMSSION.

In the afternoon Kirk described an occurrence which he said happened at his mother's house while the Coopers were bearaing there. He was awakened one morning by a voice crying, "disten;" it was his mother who had come into the room; they heard a woman crying in the adjoining bedroom, occupied by Mrs. Cooper and her hus and; she asked that proceedings be stopped; a man's voice eaid that "if Marshall would pay him $25,000 in would give her up and Marshall could have her forever, but if he would not give that sum she could come back and live with him; he would be a good hissoand to her, and she would be his true wite and they would live anappy;" witness said that only an ordinary do r separated his room from the one occupied by the Coopers and he could hear planity.

Mr. Ten Eyck then entered upon the re-cross-examinationgol the witness. When he went to Mr. Caldwell's office with Cooper from the house in Wooster street to report what had transpired there Mrs. Cooper was sitting in an adjoining office, separated by only a thin partition, so that she could hear all that was said; the Marshalls had not paid him for testifying, nor had they promised to pay him witness said his mother was in the habit of coming into his bedroom to hear what the Coopers were tasking about in the next apartment.

WHAT A DOOK BOY SAW.

The next witness was a colored boy named George Washington Crumwell; he was a door boy at Mrs. Witness was a colored boy no mand was now employed to the steamboat Crystal Wave as cook; he had seen Mr. Marshall in Mrs. Cooper's room twice—once in his suit sleeves and slippers about ten c'clock at night; he thought Marshall mad a night ten, becau

Mr. Scribner—The keyhole at Mrs. Witherstien's house was not large enough for Marshall to have crawled through, was it?

Witness—No, sir.

Air. Scribner—He could not have got into the house without a key, unless he had crawled in through the keynole, could he?

Witness—No, air; not to my knowledge.

Mr. Scribner—That is all I want to know to-day.

The proceedings were then adjourned.

THE SECURITY LIFE.

DIFFICULTIES IN THE WAY OF DISTRIBUTING THE ASSETS OF AN INSURANCE COMPANY, Mr. Stephen A. Walker, who was appointed referee last December, has prepared a statement of the affairs of that institution, which will be presented before long for the confirmation of the Court. The referee was appointed at the request of Receiver William H. Wickham, to decide upon the claims made by the various classes of policy holders for priority of payment. The General Term having decided that no preference should be given to any debts but those to the United States and judgment liens, the case was carried last December to the Court of Appeals. . The latter tribunal refused to review the decision until all questions at issue in the matter of paying off the debts of the company should be brought up together for settlement. Thereupon Receiver Wickham applied for the appointment of a referee, and the application was immediately granted. Throughout the winter and spring Mr. Walker has been taking evidence and listening to the arguments of counsel for many different dialimants. The elercal labor required in the proparation of his report is no great as to delay its immediate presentation. As his decision will probably be contested by one or more of the various classes of policy holders, and will be carried to the General Torm and thence to the Court of Appeals, it is impossible to easy definitely when the payment of claims will be begun. It is imought possible that the Court will alrect the receiver to deduct thesemont of the notes and loans noild by the company from the total amount of its indebtedness and make a pro-rate division of the remainder. The number of claimants is 9,500 and the percentage will in any case be a very small one. The following is a statement of the present financial condition of the company.—

Solomon & Sons, dealers in furniture and uphoistery, was held yesterday at the store No. 657 Broadway, te hear the report of the committee appointed at the last meeting to examine the assets of the firm and re-port a basis for a settlement. Mr. Eugene S. The committee found the total liabilities to be $427, 128 88, of which $373,082 78 were actual and $53,768 16 contingent; as to the assets, valued by the firm at $224,193 30, the committee deemed the actual value to be from fitteen to twenty per cent less, and this amount would also be subject to the expenses of the assignment and other incidentais. The committee, therefore, recommended that as the firm had so largely contributed to the general benefits of the trade the creditors should extend their sympathy in the same proportion; that they have the fullest confidence in the sons to continue the business, but recommend that Mr. B.
